Special Officer Ah On, who has reason to be thankful to High Sheriff Brown and his deputy, Mr. Chillingworth, for many past favors, surprised those officers on Christmas day by presenting them with a solid gold police badge apiece. These are patterned on the same lines as the regulation police badge as worn by members of the Honolulu police force. They are engraved and in every way, are handsome tokens.

There was a small blaze in the building of Sang Chao, a Chinese merchant, near the Wela Ka Hao saloon, Tuesday forenoon. It was caused by a live wire rubbing against the corner of the roof and igniting the shingles. An electrical worker who happened to pass by at the time, saw the trouble and was soon at work. The electric light works were communicated with and a force of linemen arriving, the fire was put out and the wire fixed.

CRIMINAL IS PARDONED

Governor Dole gave Frank D. Haskell a pardon as a Christmas present. Haskell had served nearly ten months of a sentence of two years at hard labor. Although his offense consisted in stealing two cigars, it was committed with a bold defiance of law which proved a capacity for any crime. Judge Humphreys took account of the man's record, which was closely related to homicide in Honolulu, when sentencing Haskell. The pardon was granted on condition that Haskell leave the country immediately.

TWO PRIZE LETTERS

Following are the letters that took the prize in the Wall Nichols Santa Claus competition which closed on Christmas eve:

Muriel Howatt's Letter.

Dear Santa Claus:—How have you been? I hope you have been very well so it would not put you back in your work? And how is dear Mrs. Criswell? I hope she is well she is such a dear old lady. Dear Santa Claus I do not want to ask you for very many things. Because I do not want to impose on such good nature.

Would you please give me a chair so I can rock my babies to sleep.

And would you please give me a doll's bed and a doll's bureau. And would you please fill all the other little girls' and boys' stockings and if you have not enough for a poor girl or boy's stocking please take some out of mine so you can fill theirs full.

With lots of love from your little friend
MURIEL HOWATT.
Honolulu, Dec. 20, 1901.

What Donald Lewis Says.

My Dear Santa Claus:—Sometimes I'm good and some times I'm naughty, but if you will excuse me I'll try to be much better. Please send me a box of Turtles and Ducks and other little things inside the box too. And I would like a little writing desk as I'm learning to write.

DONALD LEWIS.
Decr. the tenth.

There were so many excellent letters that it was hard work to choose between them. The judges of the contest were representatives of the Republican and Star.

THE MANHOLE GOT HIM

While the flood was at its height on Christmas Eve, a negro trudee homeward along Beretania street. At the California Feed Co.'s store the waters had reached so much that, to prevent the flooding of many houses in the vicinity, someone had removed the lid off the manhole over the storm water sewer beneath the sidewalk so that the water might more readily escape.

The colored gentleman was carrying home a basket of beer and was in a mood of chuckling over his merry Christmas in prospect. As the flood was over his ankles wherever he stepped it was not worth while picking his steps. That manhole got him. He disappeared into the sidewalk up to his armpits and the escaping contents of four bottles of beer did not perceptibly change the color of the deluge. As he extricated himself the victim delivered some appropriate remarks on the subject of unmarked holes in the sidewalk. At the moment he seemed to forget that he was lucky he was not killed.

THE SEAMEN'S CHRISTMAS.

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Please allow me to make a few remarks in praise of the noteworthy entertainment given to the seamen ashore at this port by Captain Bray, superintendent of the Seamen's Home, his wife and daughter and a few more of the seamen's friends including Mr. Gibson and wife and Mr. Knott, all of whom took an active part in waiting on tables and playing selections on the phonograph, which was enjoyed very much by the seamen. If clapping of hands goes for anything I am sure they must have had a good time and I must say that when people can leave the comforts of their own homes to go out and do something to cheer and encourage others as seamen who are far away from home and friends on such a stormy night, as Christmas eve must have the cause of sailors pretty well at heart. Now let others who are in this port who claim to be seamen's friends do likewise and it will be appreciated and remembered by them in all parts of the world.

ONE OF THE SEAMEN ENTER-TAINED.

Honolulu, Dec. 25, 1901.

TELEPHONE GIRLS GIFT.

Miss Power, chief operator in the telephone office, was the recipient of a beautiful case and picture from the girl operators as a Christmas gift, besides several presents from individual operators. The excellent and refined taste displayed in each instance, showing the personal good feeling existing between operators and their chief, was most gratifying to Miss Power, whose position is a trying one between sometimes unreasonable subscribers and operators.

Under the superintendence of Mr. Corcoran the telephone system has undergone a thorough change, greatly reducing grounds of complaint. The girl operators, by constant attention to business, Sundays and holidays alike, helped considerably to bring the central office to its present standard. This was gracefully acknowledged in a letter to Miss Power from Mr. Corcoran prior to his departure.
